Kabul oil platform uses folding containers for communication

Overview

What is a platform shipping container?

A platform shipping container is a type of cargo container that is primarily used for transporting oversized or bulky goods that cannot be accommodated within the standard dimensions of a regular shipping container. It is an open-top container with no roof or walls and has a flat base with a reinforced structure to support heavy loads.

What is a foldable cargo container?

A foldable cargo container looks like a traditional container, but it offers the opportunity of saving space when it's not being used. This type of container can be folded vertically and horizontally with the port's standard machinery and, of course, handled with container spreaders. Why do we need to save space in shipping cargo?

Who makes foldable containers?

HCI is not the only company that produces foldable containers. Another example is Staxxon, an American manufacturer of accordion-like foldable containers. They are ISO approved and will be commercially available in 2023. They can be folded and unfolded by two people or with Material Handling Equipment (MHE).

Are foldable containers better than traditional containers?

Foldable containers are more expensive than traditional ones. Innovative containers are more susceptible to damage and have a shorter lifespan. Despite these disadvantages, foldable containers are a transport solution of the future. They not only save space, time, and money but also lower your carbon footprint.

Enter The Foldable ContainerHow Does A Foldable Container Work?The Downside of Foldable ContainersWhile the containers from HCI are of the collapsible type, those from Staxxon fold vertically, in the company's words 'accordion style'. To fold an HCI container, an MHE would lift the roof of the container, and then the sides are folded inward. The roof is then lowered gently to rest on the folded sides creating a kind of horizontal flat-pack. Fou See more on marineinsight Supply Chain Magazine
